The Education Department at the University of California, Santa Cruz invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track Professor (Full) whose professional and research expertise lies in applying qualitative or quantitative research methods to equity and diversity issues in education. The department is particularly interested in candidates whose research agendas are clearly focused on improving educational access and opportunity for students from under-served populations, thus furthering the department’s focus on equity, diversity, and social justice. In addition, the successful candidate will serve as the next chair of the department; therefore, candidates with a history of successful administrative and leadership positions are especially encouraged to apply.

We seek scholars with evidence of an established and vigorous research program, a national and international reputation, a record of externally funded research grants or projects, capacity to develop research partnerships, and a record of publication and accomplishments equivalent to full professor rank. The successful candidate should be able to teach across the department’s programs (Undergraduate Minor, Master’s/Credential, and Ph.D.), advise and mentor graduate and undergraduate students, and work with students, faculty and staff from a wide range of social and cultural backgrounds. We are especially interested in candidates who can contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community through research, teaching, and service.
